

New blood helping Ridgewood

By KEVIN NEWELL

Record Staff Writer

RIDGEWOOD — Call it running with a purpose. That's the best way to describe the rejuvenation of the Ridgewood girls cross-country team this season.

Led by junior sensation Jenna Rogers and an influx of new blood to the program, the Maroons are set on reclaiming the Bergen County title from Northern Highlands after a 12-year stranglehold.

"There's good leadership on this team," said Rogers, following her third-place finish in 19 minutes, 42 seconds and Ridgewood's second-place finish Saturday at the Ridgewood Invitational Girls Varsity B race at Veterans' Field.

Last year, we weren't really into training as much. But this year, everyone's into it. We just said, 'Let's go do it.' We were hoping to do well. We have a lot of new people.

Aside from holdover Erin Roach, who finished 21st, new faces are abundant. Claire Blaney (seventh, 20:15) and Jeanne Reilly (29th), both spring track performers, came over from the soccer program. Lauren Stuhr (15th) is a transfer from Shrewsbury, Mass. And last but not least, freshman Amy Smith (26th) has been a big contributor.

"We feel it's a big improvement," said Maroons coach Jacob Brown, who saw his team improve from last season's fourth-place showing. "No doubt about it. This is a much better team. I think Jenna said it best. The girls are more committed. And winning the County's back is a major goal."

Rogers, who finished third last season, wasn't expected to run, having sprained her ankle. It wasn't until Thursday she decided to give it a shot.

CROSS-COUNTRY

"I got out slow, but that's OK for me," she said. "I planned to do that, so I could get a feel for the pace. I can never go out too fast. I don't want to get too tired."

Williamsport, Pa. won the Girls Varsity B with 49 points to Ridgewood's 72. St. Anthony of Jersey City was third (89). West Milford's Deanna Gastrock placed sixth individually (20:07).

In Girls Varsity A, Eldred bumped Warwick, N.Y., for top honors, 49-58. DePaul was the highest local finisher, tied for 10th with St. John Vianney of Holmdel.

Pascack Valley, which captured second in Boys Varsity A, was squeezed out by Warwick, N.Y., 111-113. PV's Matt Illian, fresh off his second place finish at the Manhattan Invitational, was fourth girls discover intensity

(16:49). Geoff Ryan took ninth (17:02). Dumont's Misha Simmonds, last year's winner, placed 10th (17:03).

St. Anthony of Jersey City cruised in Boys Varsity B, scoring 43 points to runner-up West Morris' 155. Ramapo, behind Frank Baldassare's 11th place showing (17:02), took eighth.

"It's kind of hollow, actually," said PV coach Bill Henshaw of the team's second-place finish. "We were hoping to win the championship. We were only two points behind the winner. We were in the small school division and it looked pretty good. We saw some of these schools down at Holmdel, and we thought we had a good shot to win

Other Indians top 30 finishers were Carl Neuman (23rd) and senior captain Chris Carbine (28th).

"We've been coming on all season," Henshaw said. "We've moved up [fifth] in the [Bergen County] polls. The kids are riding high. We're right where we want to be."
