ENGLEWOOD RELAYS

RIDGEWOOD GIRLS SETTLE FOR THIRD

By BOB KURLAND
Record Staff Writer

ENGLEWOOD — Ridgewood captured the final event of the water-logged Englewood Relays Saturday, but Madison Central won the girls title by finishing third in the mile at Winton White Stadium.

"We weren't even going to enter a team in the race," said Madison Central coach Walt Miller, "because we had used up our runners earlier."

But with his team tied with Middletown South, he put together a quartet that finished three places ahead of the Lions. The winners recorded 73 points, three more than Middletown South.

Ridgewood was a distant third with 50 points. "We could have done better," said Maroons coach Jacob Brown, "but we were aiming at the distance medley time to qualify for the Penn Relays."

Renee Pavelski's 3:50.5 opening leg and Jenna Rogers' 5:16.4 anchor leg proved the difference as Ridgewood was clocked in the quick time of 12:36.9.

"It started to rain during that race and I felt we wouldn't run that well," said Brown, "but they sped right through the rain. And the same club [Claire Blaney and Melissa Gilbert] came back to win the 4x400.

"This was a good prep for next week's [Bergen] County Relays."

On the boys side, Christian Brothers Academy scored an easy win over Don Bosco Prep, 76½-48.

"We don't have superstars," said CBA coach Tom Heath, "but we have good depth which makes us strong in relays. And we're very young with only one senior, so we expect to be very strong next year."

CBA prepped for this meet last week in the Colonial Relays. "We were doing well against Ridgewood until the kid [Bob] Keino took the stick and kept passing us."

It was a good showing for first-year coach Bill Barry's Ironmen, whose only win came in the intermediate hurdles. Pat Hypolite, Bryce Bushell, and Chris Hall were clocked in an even 3 minutes.

"We lost points when we were disqualified from the shuttle hurdles where we had the fastest time," said Barry. "But we came back from that. Also, some of our top runners, like Martin Hickey and Billy Cronin, were out with injuries."

Barry was especially happy over the showing of Frank Monks who has been sidelined with shinsplints. He ran a 2:02 in the 3,200 and 52 seconds in the 1,600. And sophomore Tim Foley, who was injured during the cross-country season, looked good in the distance medley and 4-mile runs.

"We have some work to do in the Counties because Ridgewood and Hackensack look very tough," Barry said.

The Ridgewood boys finished third but lost points in the pole vault. Vahe Hajopian was the top vaulter at 13 feet but his teammate couldn't clear 9 feet, which would have meant the victory. Tottenville of Staten Island and Christian Brothers of Albany tied for first at 21-6.

Northern Valley at Old Tappan placed fourth in the girls competition behind an outstanding effort by Adria Ferguson. She was clocked in 12 seconds for the 100 meters in the 400, in which the Golden Knights tied for first with James Madison of New York. She was the top long jumper at 15-9½ and anchored the winning sprint medley team in 2:25.

The major irony was that Englewood did not compete in its own meet. Instead, it participated in the Bergen County Scholastic League American Division Relays at Tenafly. The meet was originally scheduled for the previous Saturday.
