

Hackensack's Joseph earns first major win

By PAUL SCHWARTZ

Correspondent

SUFFERN, N.Y. — Throughout his high school career, Romeo Joseph has battled his way through cross-country and track with the same results — always a contender, but never a champion.

Wednesday night at the Rockland Community College Fieldhouse, the Hackensack senior finally earned that long-sought major victory, coming from behind with a sizzling stretch run to win the 1,000-yard run at the Ridgewood Winter Games II in a field that included most of Bergen County's top middle distance runners.

Joseph overtook sophomore teammate Tom Baldwin, then caught Westwood's Andrew Giannotti and Luke Hedges just before the finish in a solid time of 2:22.9 to earn his first victory.

"I'm really excited," said Joseph. "Tom has gotten a lot of attention this year because he's such a good runner and I'm happy to have him as a teammate and friend. But I'm trying to make myself known as a good runner and to do that, I have to win some races. This proves that I can run."

Joseph's win was one of the highlights of the area's largest meet of the season, with athletes from more than 60 schools.

Bayonne's Kevin DiGiorgio, eligible for his first meet following his transfer from St. Peter's Prep, set a meet and Hudson County record by throwing the shot 62 feet, two inches, a throw that would have placed him third in the nation last year.

Nicole Callaghan of Westwood continued her hot streak in the 3,200-meter run, opening an early lead and running by herself on the way to an 11:53.5 clocking, tuning up for defense of her Group 1 State indoor title on Feb. 9.

"It's hard to run by myself," said Callaghan, who has had to do that most of the winter in distance races. "I usually can convince myself when I start to lap runners that I've got to go faster to catch them because they're ahead of me, but sometimes it's hard to do that."

"My dad used to run competitively so I run with him a lot too, but it's harder to find people to work out with to really push me," said Callaghan, who hopes to qualify for the Nationals in March.

Westwood junior Neal Okarter won the triple jump with a leap of 42-10½, well below his early-season best of 44-9, but also placed in the long and high jumps.

"I like this meet because there aren't always meets where you get a chance to jump," said Okarter. "The long jump is really my favorite event, but I have more success so far in the triple. I really don't know why I haven't been better in that event."

Other area winners included Shawn Samuels of Englewood, winner of the long jump in a seasonal-best 21-9, Caitlin Wittreich of Tenafly, continuing undefeated locally with a 5:27.5 in the 1,600; and the Eastside girls 1,600 relay team.

No Passaic County individuals won races, but there were seven runner-up finishes, six in the girls races. Eastside's Tiamecia Fulton was second to Lisa Barber of Montclair in both the 55-meter dash and 300-yard run, scoring personal bests of 7.1 and 37.4, while teammate Kempolly Swaby was second in the 600, and Melissa Jones second in the 55 hurdles. Passaic County cross-country champ Aisha Alexander of Passaic Valley was second in the 1,600 while Maydee Oquendo of Kennedy continued her excellent running, finishing second behind Callaghan in the 3,200.

Caleb Patterson of Manchester was the only boy with a high finish, placing second in the 300-yard run in a personal-best 32.5.
